ABSTRACT

The global existence belongs to food and food existence belongs to agriculture. Thus they are complementary to each other. Our priority should be both food and agriculture as these are two likely things. Now in 21st century human being is chemicalised which promotes wealth but injurious health of Mother earth. He acts like superior to all and becomes brutish to everybody day by day. As earth is for all so we should have to think about permanent culture i.e., Permaculture. Permaculture is a culture to work with nature not against it.

INTRODUCTION

The word 'Permaculture' was coined by David Holmeren and Bill Mollison in 1978. Permaculture is a synergistic system of designing component of earth with Perseverance and extended sustainable manner. The core things of Permaculture are soil, air and water. This culture not only gives us food but also gives us fragrance of gardening, forestry, medicinal crops, well habitat for microorganisms, animals.

Conservation of energy can't be apart from this system.

METHODS

Some terms and principles should be followed:-

- i. observation
- ii. storage of energy
- iii. yield obtain
- iv. time self regulation and accepting feedback
- v. use renewable resources
- vi. no wastage production
- vii. integration
- viii. use solution
- ix. value diversity
- x. value marginal
- xi. change

Single crop and single species rearing should be prohibited. External interference should not be there at all. Land should be productive and practical. Micro flora and fauna should be encouraged.

RESULTS

Positive vibes arises among all of us .The principle like 'vasudhaiba kutumbaka' means the entire earth is our family will be felt. Where ever we look around us we will get calm ,peace and happiness.

CONCLUSION

Thinking ability should be like, life is a cooperative process not a competitive one . The way we treat the earth the reflection we get, It may be good or evil. You have to think for both today and tomorrow. Respect, love and care to all children of mother earth.
